

Introduction to Cremation

At Passing Paws, we understand that pets are without a doubt one of life's biggest blessings. They bring endless joy to our sometimes stressful lives and their happiness is infectious.

A question that many families ask when losing a beloved pet is, "should I cremate my pet?". At Passing Paws we deal daily with bereaved pet owners who are unsure as to what to do next once their furry companion has passed on.

Whether your dog has passed at home or at your local veterinary clinic, the experienced staff at Passing Paws will be able to arrange their collection for cremation. We understand your grief and we promise to handle every situation with the utmost care and sensitivity.

Cremation vs Burial

The question of cremation versus burial is often the most important one when a cherished pet passes on. Most families aren't able to bury their pets now due to council restrictions and often families are renting which would then mean leaving a beloved family member behind when the family moved homes. A lot of homes are also a multi-pet household and so there is added worry about the pet's body being disturbed by others. Cremating your pet allows for them to be safely reunited and taken with you on the rest of your life's journey, wherever that may take you.

SUPPORT BEYOND THE SERVICE

The Cremation Process Explained

Cremation Options

As Passing Paws are Perth's private cremation specialists, you can rest assured that your pet will be cremated in their own chamber within our accredited facility and all of your loved one's ashes will be returned to you. Our crematory is built to DEFRA (Department of Environment, Food and Rural Affairs) standards. These high standards ensure that there is no risk of cross contamination of ashes, but for extra peace of mind, we also offer iPad viewings of your beloved pet being placed into our crematory.

The Premium Cremation

An all-inclusive package designed for families wanting to be part of their pet's final journey. The Garden of Rest and Family Comfort Room are opened up to the family to say their final farewells prior to the Private cremation taking place. The service includes collection of your pet from your home or vet clinic in one of our luxury vehicles, preparation of your pet for viewing, exclusive access to our facility for your family for the duration, a complimentary hair clipping, a clay paw impression, remembrance candle, comfort poem and a wooden or metal urn of your choice. Additionally, your pet ashes will be delivered home personally once the cremation has taken place that day or at a time and day that your family find comforting.

The Same Day Service

This service is where your pet will be collected, privately cremated and ready to come home the same day or at a time and day that your family find comforting. It has been identified that the same day service helps families come to terms with their loss as it avoids delaying the grieving process. Furthermore, your pet will be with one of our Pet Care Specialist throughout the whole journey and will take priority when they arrive into our crematorium.

The Standard Service

Our Standard cremation is the most cost-effective Private Cremation. This is where your Pet is collected from your Vet Clinic and their cremation takes place within 3-5 days of arriving at our facility. Once you have organised any memorabilia that you would like for your pet, you can then collect their ashes from Passing Paws, or can arrange for the home delivery service.

PawsTrack™

As part of our dedication to you, our Pet Location System known as PawsTrack™ and continuous CCTV monitoring guarantee that the ashes returned to you are only those of your pet.

PawsTrack™ is a system that allows you and your family the visibility to know where your beloved pet is at every stage of the cremation process and gives you the confidence that Passing Paws are committed to the high standards that families expect of us.
